

Soviet leader, Gorbachev, signs treaty of friendship and collaboration with Cuba

On his third and last full day in Cuba the Soviet leader ~~signs~~ ^{SIAHS} a treaty of friendship and collaboration.

RB-29

~~The Soviet leader~~

A treaty of friendship and collaboration between Cuba and the Soviet Union was signed on the Soviet leader's last full day in Cuba. ~~Art~~ One article of the treaty refers to non-interference in the affairs of the other country. This article obviously is intended to end rumours that the Soviets are ready to crack the whip and force Cuba to follow Gorbachev's reconstruction policy. ~~The treaty is also intended to tell the United States that the Soviet Union will not abandon Cuba.~~
