he affirmed that the two-month old government of ghana has made no ideological pronouncements about its political line +but the various programs that have been undertaken leave no doubt concerning our position.+

the ghanaian defense committee leader denied that the new government took over as a result of a coup. +it was a revolution, he said, +because we have not replaced men but rather institutions that oppressed us and we are ready to create structures that respond to the interests of the people.+
