The "Communist Supply" of the U.S., 1940-1960 was the result of the policies of the U.S. government and the Communist Party.

the case, as reported in 1937, and especially, as reported in 1940.

The document also said that the role of the United Nations in the settlement of the conflict is to the extent that the Security Council constitutes a historic opportunity for the immediate resumption of direct negotiations between the parties. It is the responsibility of the governments for conclusion of a peace treaty between the belligerent states.

+the two delegations, + the communique continued, +consider that the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of moroccan forces from the last redout occupied illegally in the territory of the adra is the only guarantee for the reestablishment of a just, definitive and permanent peace in northeast africa.

the communique condemned +the military intervention of the united states together with morocco in its aggression against the adra and censured the presence of u.s. military bases on moroccan territory.

the communique declared that the visit of mohamed el ghazal to cuba has been an important step in the strengthening of friendly relations between the governments and peoples of cuba and the adra.

ghazal also reported that an agreement was signed by cuba and the adra to exchange information on themes of mutual interest. the two nations also agreed to hold annual consultations on international problems and on activities carried out in international organizations.
